FRANCE AND ITALY ARE STILL AT ODDS

No Terms of Accord Announced But Capital Hears That Treaty Will Be Signed Today.

BY JOSEPH E. SHARKEY.

PARIS, Feb. 23 .- (A)-French and British naval negotiators were believed tonight to have reached an agreement on French sea tonnage that will solve the Franco-Italian question to a certain extent and relieve Britain's mind on the naval situation.

Arthur Henderson, the British foreign secretary, and A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, came here today to work in the Franco-British negotiations, which have been handled recently between R. L. Craigie, Brit-ish admiralty expert, and Rene Mas-ish admiratty expert, and Rene saas-sigli for the French.

Tonight they held a late session with Foreign Minister Aristide Briand and Charles Dumont, French minister of marine, with Lord Tyrrell, the British ambassador to France, also Craigie and Count Massigli, it was understood, already had arranged a tentative formula providing for transfer of French tohnage from the submarine to the destroyer category. The formula was of a nature to relieve British anxiety over the French naval program, but there remains to be obtained Italian agreement to the French figures, which are in excess of Italy's because France feels she needs additional warships to protect her colonies and cover the projected German fleet.

house for these same 33 organizations to prevent an overlapping of effort.

The national conference itself met later tonight behind closed doors to listen to the decision of its strategy board, but details of the discussion were withheld.

Vigorous objections were authoritatively reported advanced at the board meeting today to proposals to create a single, all-embracing dry organization to carry on through the campaign. One dry leader, who would not permit his name to be used, asserted both the large and small organizations represented had held back from such a plan.

The quarterly dividend on Coca-Cola + would have the effect of placing the common stock was increased from stock on an $8 annual basis and would increase 1931 dividend payments on the common stock to $8,000,000, or the common stock to $8,000,000 over the Fourth Power Into Line voted on the 1,000,000 shares of common stock at the annual directors' meeting held here Monday in the Plum street office of the company. The effect of this action is to make the total dividends for the quarter an increase of $2,000,000 over the past year's payments.

The dividend is payable April 1 to stockholders of record March 12.

Monday's meetings followed closely upon the announcement two weeks ago that 1930 earnings of the Coca-Cola Company had surpassed all previous records, the past 12 months being the eighth year in which sales showed an increase over the previous year and the sixth consecutive year in which sales volume broke all recin which sales volume broke all records.

and Charles Dumont, French minister of marine, with Lord Tyrrell, the British ambasador to France, also atting in.

The session ran late and after M. Briand, Mr. Henderson and Lord Tyrrell bad departed, Mr. Alexander and M. Dumont remained with their technical experts, still busy.

This started reports that an accord had been reached, with figures on French tonnage and distribution of ships, and it was held likely that the agreement would be signed tomorrow. Should France and Italy fail to reach an accord on their naval program, a building race between those countries might ensue. Such a race, it is felt in naval circles, would imperil the London treaty and might oblige Great Britain to invoke its safeguard clause and build in proportion to Italy and France.

Such a course on the part of Great Britain, it was said, might entail similar activity by the United States and Japan and thus destroy the whole London agreement. These possibilities indicate the importance attached to the visit of the British representate and Mr. Company of New Jersey.

The report of Mr. Buckley charged that sixteen Georgia counties "are centers of distilling," that "their sheriffs are unsympathetic with enforcement efforts and extend no cooperation to federal officers."

Mr. Dismuke said he was unable to say where Mr. Buckley obtained his information.

As a "book-writer" I am not supposed to know much about the culinary art, but, as I was born down on the "old plantation" in the blackbelt of Alabama and was fed on this southern delicacy by my old "blackmammy," I claim to be an authority on the subject of making and eating potlikker and cornpone. The approved way is neither dunking or crumbling, but, to make a "soak" of the cornpone in the potlikker.

The correct spelling of the word is —potlicker—which originated in the way it is eaten. The spelling—potlikka—is ambiguous and has a foreign flavor while the dish is exclusively southern. One to the manner born does lanta Constitution :

southern. One to the manner born does not use a spoon for his "fillin," but drinks from a bowl and utilizes his tongue to ladle the "soak" while drink-

As the question seems to be of national importance, I suggest that we use it as a relief measure for the hungry people of the nation by having debates to settle the question, giving the proceeds to the needy to buy potlikker and cornpone. I assure them

Potlikker Editor, The Constitution:
The recent controversy between the "Dunkers" and the "Crumblers" having assumed proportions where it is no longer a private fight but one that anybody can get in, I am writing to you as the "Einstein of Dunkers."

First of all, as you have previously been advised, "dunk" is a Pennsylvania Dutch word; in fact there is quite a large sect known as "Dunkards" (you may verify this in any good encyclopedia). I believe these are the highest versed in the science of "dunking"; also that there are three grades—the beginners or neophytes, the intermediary of diprites" and the "Dunkards." Poclitiker Editor, Atlanta Constitution:

I have been deeply interested in the views concerning how potliker is to be taken.

I may not know as much about politics and theology as some other ministers in the state, but having been brought into close contact with Georgians and southerners during thirty years in the ministry as pastor, president of the Georgia Baptist Sunday school convention and vice president of the Georgia Baptist convention, I feel that my experience warrants me in saying that real potlikker was made in the years gone by after the country dinner was served when the bread and allowed to stay until the evening meal. Then it was served with delicous cool buttermilk. And nine-tenths of the preachers who are the real epicures, and the most experienced eaters in the world will agree with the above. Yours for potlikker and more of it. Sincerely,

OF FINE DIXIE CUSTOM

Potlikker Editor, Constitution:
I have been reading with delight all that has been said about potlikker and good old cornpone.

I have consumed an enormous quantity of potlikker and corn bread for nearly a half century and it is by far the most tasty dish that can be served.

We are having at our home tonight potlikker and corn bread. I have crumbled corn bread into potlikker all my life and under no circumstances would I break this wonderful southern rule of crumbling and I think anyone who uses the dunking process, knows nothing whatever about how to eat. Very truly yours,

Potlikker Editor, The Atlanta Constitution:

'Round in these parts we cook our corapone in with the potlikker. The corapones, 3 or 4 inches in diameter, and one-half to three-fourths of an inch, are dropped into the pot a few minutes before it is ready to be taken off. Thus the corapone is thoroughly soaked with the potlikker, and you have full strength of the potlikker. We have always called these dumplings. Of course, both cornpone and potlikker are rare eatings together or separately. But if you haven't tried it cooked together you have missed a portion of your heritage. Cordially yours,

I have noted with interest the controversy in regard to potlikker. While all of this is interesting and most entertaining I wish to get the facts right. There is only one way to handle potlikker, namely, cook the vegetables, preferably beans or turnips, during the morning hours, serve them for the midday meal but allow the potlikker to remain in the pot along with the ham hock. As soon as the vegetables have been removed put into the likker about three pones of brown-crusted corn bread. Allow to soak until the evening meal, at which time serve, placing beside each plate a good glass of buttermilk. For dessert use hot biscuits, country butter and old fashioned sugar cane syrup.

Warning the democratic party to shun "selfish interests" seeking to control it "with their money and hirelings," Governor W. H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, tonight advanced a party platform to "restore the little man and give him renewed hope in the struggle of life."

The Oklahoma executive told Kansas democrats it was the duty of their party to "point the way that will reinstate the farmer, give trade to the business world and give back to the mouths, of labor the bread it earns."

He predicted a democratic victory in the next presidential election, provided the party convinced the people it was sincerely behind a constructive policy opposed to "mergers and monopoly" and did not yield to "the cry of representatives of combined wealth and capital and the intrigues of corrupt politicians."

REGENSTEIN'S PEACHTREE

Today---Our First Birthday Is a Good Day to Give Thanks!

Regenstein's Peachtree Store is one year old today—and what a year it has been -stock market crashes, droughts, tidal waves, tornadoes, and business no merry jest! Difficult, certainly, but interesting and happy, yes. Withal a prosperous year, a year of increased facilities, augmented resources, and full-grown opportunities. During this year we have striven tirelessly to accomplish one thing—that is, at all times to bring to our customers and friends exactly the things they wanted, at exactly the prices they wanted to pay for them. How well we have succeeded is attested by the generous patronage and the kindly good will of our thousands of friends in Atlanta and all Georgia. Today, on our first birthday, we are deeply grateful to the friends and customers who have made possible this successful year.

59 Years of Service A Proud Tradition!

Though the Peachtree Store celebrates its first birthday, it is but the outgrowth, the child of Regenstein's Whitehall Store, a business which has for four generations stood for fashion, for quality, for economy, for integrity, and for a broad, generous policy in adjustments of all sorts. February 24, 1930, the Peachtree Store opened its doors, Immediately, it stepped into a place in the hearts of Atlanta women and it is entirely due to their loyal support, their constant co-operation and their generous patronage, that this, our first year of business has been crowned with success. For this success, we wish to express our deepest gratitude and appreciation to those of you who made it possible—the friends and customers of the J. Regenstein Company - a citizen of Atlanta for 59 years.

Read what it did for Mrs. R. Johnson. 348 Gray St., N. W., Atlanta, who said:

"My troubles started last July with a torpid liver and constipation. My system was so toxic I suffered with severe pains through my back and sides and my feet and ankles would swell so I couldn't even put my shoes on. I was dreadfully nervous and my stomach was so weak at times that I couldn't even retain water on my stomach. Sargon, and Sargon Pills, swept the poisons and pains from my system and overcame every trouble I had. My appetite is wonderful, and with sound digestion and sleep. I'm like my former self again, brimful of new life and energy."

World's Smallest Exchange Sets Price of Cheese Throughout U.S.

BY GILES L. FINDLEY.
CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—(P)—A perfunctory transaction between two dealers each Friday morning in the little Wisconsin ciy of Plymouth sets the wholesale price of American cheese throughout the entire United States for the ensuing week.

Plymouth, city of perhaps 5,000 population, is the home of the Wisconsin Cheese Exchange, probably the most powerful and dominating influence in the American chees industry today.

The conduct of that market is unexciting. Each Friday morning a dealer walks into the trading room and lists the amount of cheese he wishes to sell by writing on the blackboard opposite his name the number of the Chevrolet converuble cabriolet

There is a definite trend, nowadays, toward that informal type of personal car whose lines, fittings and special equipment follow the sport mode. Just such a car has recently been added to the Chevrolet six-cylinder line, and is now on display in our showrooms: the new Chevrolet convertible cabriolet.

In this model, something entirely new in smartness and individuality is brought to the low-price field. The Body by Fisher has long rakish lines, enlivened by rich colors and many modish new style effects. A spacious rumble seat gives the car four-passenger capacity. Landau irons, window and windshield frames, radiator grille and cowl lamps, all finished in sparkling chromium plate, emphasize the custom character of this model.

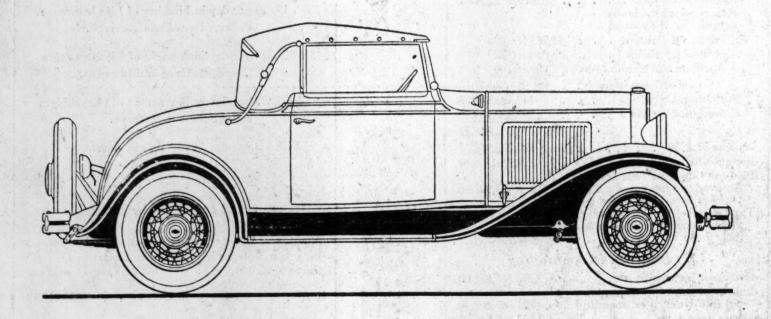

In addition, the cabriolet offers the advantage of being convertible. The top can be conveniently raised or lowered to make it either a snug enclosed coupe, or a dashing open roadster.

You are invited to come in and be one of the first to look over this latest addition to the current Chevrolet six-cylinder line. In common with all other Chevrolet models, the cabriolet combines unusual comfort, dependability, endurance and performance with a price that makes it an outstanding value.

Marrying Smithie Takes Beloved Anvil to London

LONDON, Feb. 23,-(A)-Richard Rennison, the marriage making blacksmith of Gretna Green, Dumfries, Scotland, made his first visit to London over the week-end and was so afraid that someone would steal his anvil-altar that he brought it along with him.

On his first sightseeing trip he left the anvil at his hotel but he was so nervous for its safety that thereafter he took it with him wherthereafter he took it with him wherever he went. The Mirror said that although the anvil weighed 240 pounds he was able to carry it to and from his taxi and up and down subway escalators without distress.

He was greatly impressed with London. "But Gretna Green is best," he said, "there is more romance there than in all of London." He has married more than 900 couples.

the extreme heat of the Australian the extreme heat of the Australian summer.

Friends believed she hastened her own end with insistence upon spending Christmas in her native Australia, disregarding the advice of her physicians in Euorpe, under whose treatment she was growing better. She became ill again aboard ship and had to enter a hospital at Sydney before proceeding to Melbourne.

She was happy however, in spending her last hours in this city, near where she was born, and from which she took her stage name, Melba. Her real name was Nellie Porter Mitchell, changed by her marriage in 1882 to Armstrong. Her father was David Mitchell, a contractor of Scottish blood, at Burnley, not far from here. Known to all the world was the successor to Patti and Jenny Lind, Melba sang last in America at the New York Metropolitan in Faust in 1917-18, and after that was seldom heard in public. She was said to have retained the purity, sweetness and flexibility of her voice almost until the time of her death.

Her most famous roles were as Gilda in Rigoletto, Violetta in La Travitata and Lucia. Other roles were the soprano parts of La Boheme, Tosca, Otello and an occasional Bruenhilde. Although the critics were lavish in their praise they sometimes complained of her coldness as an actress.

The house is located in the heart of a populous residential section, negrbors informing police that whisky-making ingredients were being carried in by the alleged operators. Detectives G. G. Caldwell and A. E. Davis made the arrest.

When the officers entered the room the second floor, they stated, they found Ed Whitfield, negro, of Madison, stirring the mash. He was immediately placed under arrest, along with Tom Greenwood, negro, who owns the house and lives there. Greenwood said he was not aware of the existence of the still, asserting that he rented the room to a negro by the name of Henry King Flemmister several weeks ago. He said that he and his wife worked every day and did not know what went on in the upstairs room.

THE financial story below is a record of achievement by men and women who are planning to avert want or to build estates. You may admire their steadfastness of purpose last year under handicaps which tested courage.

These people—policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company—are building for their future. They would like to know what the future holds in store for them and for the country as a

Let them, and other citizens, examine any chart of our country's unparalleled prosperity over the past hundred years. It appears, not merely as a jagged line, but as a series of towering steps which rise steadily onward and upward.

It is heartening now to recall that, after each depression, our country has always gone forward to greater heights of prosperity and better, sounder standards of living. Today this country has more riches and better facilities than ever before with which to commence her next great period of development.

A review of the financial history of the United States since it was founded in 1783 should turn any pessimist into an optimist.

The Metropolitan will gladly mail, free, a booklet,"The Development of Prosperity in America", telling of past ups and downs-and ups againand how soon the "ups" followed.

St. Philip's Will Hold Daily Lenten Service

Special services will be conducted each day except Satarday, during Lent, from 12:05 until 12:35 p. m., at St. Philip's cathedral, Washington and East Hunter streets, it was announced Monday.

Dean Raimundo de Ovies will have charge of the services on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of each week, and Canon William S. Turner, B. D., will conduct them on Thursdays and Fridays. Each Friday at 4:15 o'clock Dean de Ovies will hold a mission for children.

M. Hicks, vice president of Sterchi Stores, Inc., said Monday night.

The statewide $600,000 six-day sale of Sterchi's began Monday, and managers of Sterchi stores located in Atlanta, East Point, Athens, Macon, Bainbridge, Thomaston, Gainesville, Dalton and Rome reported that their stores were thronged with customers eagerly buying the many bargains offered, Mr. Hicks said.

"It is the intention of the Sterchi organization to make this the greatest event in its history by offering values that have never before been equaled. It is the general consensus among customers that it seemed like 'old times again' Monday. They were buying steadily all day long, astounded and delighted with the bargains," the vice president said.

"We have been in business a good many years," he continued, "and at no time do I recall furniture values being as great as they are in our stores today. In some instances our price tags show merchandise marked actually less than the cost of manufacture. The entire state has the opportunity of participating in this sale, as carload after carload of merchandise has been placed on display to meet the tremendous demand during this $600,000 statewide sale."

Old Journalism place.

Journalism in Georgia as it flourished in the days of his youth was recalled by Hal M. Stanley, commissioner of commerce and labor and executive secretary of the Georgia Press Association, Monday in an address to the student body of the Emory University school of journalism.

Mr. Stanley's subject was "The Newspapers of Georgia" He referred to the "five major papers" published during his early manhood, giving reminiscent accounts of Henry Grady, of The Atlanta Constitution; Albert R. Lamar, of The Macon Telegraph; Mirabeau B. Lamar, of The Macon Telegraph; Mirabeau B. Lamar, of The Columbus Inquirer-Sun; J. S. Estill, of The Sasannah News, and Pat Walsh and James R. Randall, of The August Chronicle.

Speaking of Georgia editors, Mr. Stanley said for the most part they are tolerant. "They remember that others have the same right to choose as they make a choice. Particularly do they believe that every person has a right to worship as suits him best, to marry whomsoever he pleases, within the law, and to vote for the party of his choice, if he is not offensive in doing sb."

A colorful note in the program came when Mr. Stanley referred to Mr. Randall having been proclaimed by critics north and south as the author of the greatest war lyric ever written. At this point Miss Maxine Land toucher of expression and daughter of the carbant fundamental survey were announced today as follows:

Georgia has been peculiarly fortunate in the high calibre and liberal policy of the building and loan associations which have done business within its borders. As a result of their existence many thousands of our citizens now own their own home who in all probability could not otherwise ever have come into possession of the roofs over their heads.

While the percentage of loss by stockholders in the various building and loan associations throughout the country is very low as compared with other nation-wide investments, Georgia has a unique record in that not a single dollar has ever been lost in this state by the stockholders of any local build- remember that "charity begins at " ing and loan association.

DON'T FAIL THE RECORD.

Since it is undoubtedly true that persons in Atlanta are in present business depression without actual hunger and lack of clothing and fuel, the appeal to the humanity of our better-to-do citizens is very nstant and strong.

Mayor Key has earnestly appealed to the people to volunteer the needed help through the many church and charitable organizations of the city. That appeal should not fail of ample response. It is not on record that the hearts and hands of Atlanta people have ever failed in such an emergency. It would be acutely pitiful should they fail this one poignant occasion.

The crux of the situation is that the city funds for the needed relief are well exhausted and the fiscal condition of the treasury cannot ters of moment he will present for meet the unusual present demand their consideration remains to be for physical relief. There is now a fair probability that congress, having done all the damage to the country that it could without subjecting itself to the sufferings of a Washington summer, will quit the capitol Wednesday of next week.

The public gazettes of more than a hundred years ago were filled with criticisms of the dilatory and disturbing transactions of the congresses of that day. The only difference between then and now is the larger personnel of the congress and the greater field of the nation to war and militarism. He makes this amazing assertion in a book entitled "The Fall of Christianity," which has just been published in Holland. The book is bound to raise a storm of controversy in the whole world, for it is being translated into many languages. In the country of its origin it has already caused a tremendous stir and not alone in church circles, Protestant and Catholic alike, but jurists and political economists are debating the issue raised therein with equal passion.

The learned author starts out by tracing the historical process which changed the primitive Christian charged the primitive Christian church from an uncompromising antimilitarist society into a meek and valuable adjunct of the Roman state under the emperors after Constantine. And his book then gradually develops into a most serious call for a return early state.

Heering holds that the most lithing facing humanity is the question of armaments and prepara tion for war. He warns the Christians of the world that attempts will be made to sidetrack their attention by raising other issues, for instance, the "red peril," but asks them not to be swaved from centering their attention entirely upon the question that in his estimation is of prime importance. Here is no fly-by-night propaganda sheet by some flamboyant pacifist. Hollanders are seldom flamboyant, Dr. Heering's is a scholarly treatise that will perhaps go down in history as one of the few great books of the century. The indictment he delivers against the church—not any particuagainst the church—not any particu-lar denomination of course—is, in one word, teriffic. No Christian, unless he be one, who invokes the Old Testa-ment and the bloody conquests of the Hebrew King David and such like incidents as divine sanctions of war, can muster up a valid argument to support war on militarism under any form, after reading Dr. Heering's devastating study. It simply becomes a question of being for or against Christ and His teachings.

Exceptionally clever doctors sometimes succeed in extirpating the tonsils with diathermy even in children only five years of age. As a rule, physicians skilled in this modern and safe method will not attempt to use it for children less than ten or twelve years of age, because it is so difficult to control most young children in the chair and obtain their co-operation with the doctor.

Even yet one occasionally hears some old fogy throat specialist ask why he should give up the surgical method he has used so many years with satisfaction (to himself) and go to all the expense of installing the apparatus and the trouble of learning the difficult technic of diathermy? Will his patients pay him any more for this improved method? Will they be more grateful to him? Besides, he can do a complete tonsillectomy in an hour or less and be done with it, whereas this new method requires fussing with the patient every week for several weeks.

ACTRESS CHARMS ALBANIAN KING

VIENNA, Feb. 23.—(P)—King Zog of Albania announced tonight that he had decided to remain in Vienna despite the attempt to assassinate him last week and gossips were attributing his decision to a desire to stay near the pretty actress, Franziska Janko, whose name was linked with the Balkan monarch for the first time today by the newspaper Wiener Stunde.

A Yankee talks about Pennies and Jacobs introduces them

From the Atlanta Journal of October 13, 1884:

A Yankee remarked at the car shed yesterday, "In the South when copper cent pieces are offered in change they are generally shoved back, but in the North and West they are taken in. Cents make dollars in the South as well as elsewhere. Why's this? Because people need a penny boom.

Later the Journal read:

It remained for Dr. Joseph Jacobs, pioneer druggist of Atlanta and originator of the "cut-rate" drug store, to make the penny popular by making the exact change. To this end he had Henry Porter, President of the Merchants Bank, send to the mint and get him one thousand new pennies. These newly minted coins looked much like five dollar gold pieces and became very popular. They were quickly put into circulation through the "cut-price" sales that revolutionized the

Thus it was through the enterprise of Dr. Jacobs that pennies came into general use in Atlanta and throughout the South, and the "Yankee" who made this remark in the car shed nearly fifty years ago would be delighted at the "penny boom" that Jacobs continues to keep alive. Jacobs will save many pennies for you on standard, nationally advertised products, upholding the early policy to share the profits with the people.

Until the penny boom it was believed that all medicines and other drug store products must be sold to the consumer at full prices in order to protect the small dealer who could not buy in a quantity to get an advantageous price. But Dr. Jacobs felt he should pass his savings on to the people and Jacobs stores have been able to do this always because of volume buying. Truly, a penny saved is a penny earned.

Generalissimo Pictures Dire Straits of Allies. U. S. Commander Ready To Make Some Concessions But Sticks To Salient Convictions-Foch Criticizes Our Organization. Pershing Also Contests Sharply With Lloyd George.

BY GENERAL JOHN J. PERSHING.

CHAPTER XLIV.

The sixth session of the Supreme War Council was convened June 1. 1918. The important matter of further shipment of American troops was taken up

As already indicated, it was my opinion that neither the character of the troops to be sent over, nor their disposition, was within the province of the council to decide, but that these questions should be determined by ourselves according to circumstances and after discussion

So I objected to their consideration by the council, as such, and suggested a meeting outside the council, which was approved.

Accordingly, in the late afternoon General Foch, Lord Milner, British war minister; General Weygand and I, with Colonels Conner and Boyd, met in the prime minister's room, General Foch began by stating the serious condition of the Allies and proposed the continued shipment from America of nothing but infantry and machine gun units in June and July, in effect, 250,000 in each month. Everyone realized the gravity of the Allied situation as strongly as he did, but, as previously and persistently contended by me, there were two sides to the question.

I was prepared to make some continued the railways all over France were on the point of breaking down for lack of efficient operators and of skilled workmen to repair rolling stock; that our ports would be hopelessly blocked unless we could improve the railways; that his plan would leave us 200,000 men short to complete combat units and fill up special organizations that were absolutely necessary in the S. O. S., and finally, that the restriction of our shipments to infantry and machine gun units would be a very dangerous and short-sighted policy.

To much of this he paid little or attention, and replied that all these things could be postponed.

but, as previously and persistently contended by me, there were two sides to the question.

I was prepared to make some concessions and stated my views, but neither facts nor arguments seemed to make any impression. General Foch especially was very positive and earnest, and in fact became quite excited, waving his hands and repeating: "The battle, the battle; nothing else counts."

With equal emphasis I urged that we must build up our organization as fast as possible to carry on the battle. His views seemed to have no more tillery, and to have no more tillery, and the postponed.

Mr. Graeme Thompson, British expert on teansportation and supply, ocame into the room at this point with Mr. Lloyd George and General Sir Herry Wilson, and took part in the discussion. Mr. Thompson said with emphasis that it would be a very serior continuous mistake not to send over 15,000 men to repair rolling stock and otherwise build up our rail transportation system, and he went on to describe the run-down condition of the railways.

With equal emphasis I urged that we must build up our organization as fast as possible to carry on the battle.

Editor's Note:—Mrs. Myra Waikins Swan-son, of Atlanta, former member of the army nurse corps in France, won second prize of $10 in The Constitution's Pershing contest with the following story.

BY MYRA WATKINS SWANSON.

Base Hospital No. 60 was stationed at Bazoilles-sur-Meuse, a small French town, five kilometers from Neufchateau.

The armistice had been signed.

The armistice had been signed. Hospital trains no longer steamed onto the siding, filled with wounded, to be rushed to wards, tents and operating rooms. These scenes were a memory. Life was becoming unbearable, awaiting our return to the United States, our return to the United States, when an order was posted that the personnel of Base No. 60 should proceed to Gondrecourt the following day to join the 80th division to be inspected by General Pershing.

It had been raining for weeks; the nurses were plodding about in rubber boots; mud ankle deep everywhere. But for inspection we were to wear our regulation high tan shoes, long ulster overcoats and blue velour hats. We sponged and brushed and polished and next morning left at 6 o'clock in ambulances for Gondrecourt, 40 kilometers away. Raining, of course.

Arrived there at 9; were lined

Arrived there at 9; were lined up with the division and waited, waited in the steady downpour until 12, when General Pershing arrived. Down the line he came! Mud, mud, everywhere—and as he came to the nurses he stopped, looked at our wet, mud-spattered shoes and said: "Where are your rubbers?"

Pershing Again Meets Foch's Challenge.

Foch resorted to his often-repeated question whether I was willing to take the risk, to which I replied very posi-tively that I was ready to assume any responsibility my proposal might en-

He spoke of the generous and chivalrous attitude of President Wilson, and said all they could do was to acquaint him with their needs and call upon him to come to their aid, more particularly to the aid of France at the period of the most terrible extremity that she had yet encountered.

Mr. Lloyd George proposed that we should even bring over men that were partially instructed, as he thought they would learn faster in the atmosphere of war. I said we could not strip the country of every man with any sort of training, as we should then be back where we had started in 1917, and I argued that all mensent over should have at least three months training if at all possible. Whereupo M. Clemenceau asked what would become of the war in the interval.

I remarked that the discussion had become complicated, but that it was my hope the greatest possible number of troops, including artillery and aux-iliary combat troops and those needed for railways and ports, should be

At this stage it was necessary to onfess that this emergency had no been foreseen and that it would be impossible for us to ship over as many infantry and machine gun troops as the Allies wished, because June 30 we should have left at home only 90,-000 of such troops with the necessary

General Foch used this as the basis of criticism of our organization, asinfantry in proportion to other troops, failing entirely to appreciate our requirements for the service of supply and transportation and for the artillery, engineers and other combat triops as well.

It is pertinent to remark here that notwithstanding my urgent recommendations for a large increase in the number of drafts the war department continued up to May 1 to call out only an average of 116,000 per month. Consequently, the supply of trained men had run short in an emergency that required the shipment of 250,000 to 300,000 per month. During May 373,000 men had been drafted. Most of them received little training before their arrival in France, where too often the training had to be completed by the costly experience of battle.

Continuing the conference, Mr. Lloyd George said he thought President Wilson would be deeply interested to get General Foch's view of the situation, and added that as America had no prime minister present he thought it would be inconvenient for us to make a decision, but that this subject should be brought before the whole council.

I then called attention to a cable from Secretary of War Baker, already quoted, showing that the president had been very much embarrassed by representations made to him personally by the French and British ambassadors, and had suggested that the matter might be settled by a conference between General Foch and myself. I pointed out that the cable did not mention the supreme war council, and I again stated my opposition to making the subject one of general discussion by all Allied representatives and their staffs.

I did not fail to point out further that the president was trusting my independent in this would be a conference to the president was trusting my independent on the supreme war council, and I again stated my opposition to making the subject one of general discussion by all Allied representatives and their staffs.

The British problems being similar to ours, though less difficult, the views of Mr. Thompson were more to the point. He had plainly said it was impossible to assure the proper handling of an army without adequate rail and port facilities. Lord Milner agreed, and said he thought he fully understood my problems.

Inconsistent Demands on U. S.

Mr. Lloyd George read a proposed message to the president that 170,000 infantry and machine gun units without regard to training be sent in both June and July out of a possible 250,000 in each month, leaving transportation for a total of 160,000 of the categories desired by me. General Foch proposed that the message be sent and Lord Milner appealed for an agreement, but I could not agree to bringing troops with only one month's training.

I called attention to the fact that

I called attention to the fact that we were being importuned on one hand to send over nothing but replacements for Allied divisions to the utter neglect bf our own military forces, and on the other we were being pressed to furnish thousands of men for their technical services.

Moreover, it had already been dem-onstrated by the experience of our units that the Allies were not preunits that the Allies were not prepared to supply our men with either equipment or accustomed food. I insisted that auxiliary and service troops be sent to build up our own organization in preference to the shipment of uninstructed troops, who could not fight when they arrived, and suggested that the July program might be postponed until August. Clemenceau remarked that the German would not postpone his attacks, to which I replied that we could not rely on untrained men in battle.

It was here that Mr. Lloyd George read a proposition which set forth the critical situation requiring the concentration of reserves in front of Paris and the urgent necessity of finding critical situation requiring the concentration of reserves in front of Paris and the urgent necessity of finding other troops to replace the French divisions taken from the British front. He drew attention particularly to the opinion expressed by General Foch that the Allies would be defeated unless the number of 3ritish divisions could be maintained. He then proposed as a solution that the British commander-in-chief should determine when the American troops with his armies had acquired a ficient training to be placed in the line.

This meant that such troops would become replacements, and it was impossible for me to make such a concession. I rather vigorously stated that this was a prerogative and a responsibility I would not relinquish under any circumstances. I said this was not the council's business, but that every consideration would be given by me to any urgent request from General Foch for our troops, trained or untrained.

Fight Over Appointment Of Fred Flanders Is Seen CONDITIONS FAVORABLE

Letters Pro and Con Received in Washington Over U. S. Marshalship.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.-What ppears to be certain to develop into washington, Feb. 23.—What appears to be certain to develop into a most acrimonious fight became evident here today with the receipt of many protests against the appointment of Fred Flanders, of Savannah, as United States marshal for the southern district of Georgia. On the other hand, quite as many letters of commendation, stating that Mr. Flanders was of the highest character and that his record made him eminently fitted for the position, were received. Both United States senators from Georgia have received communications such as those mentioned and have turned them over to the subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee, which consists of Senators Stephens, of Mississippi; Hebert, of Rhode Island, and Hastings, of Delaware. One of the protests which arrived this morning came from a railway men's union in Savannah, while most of the others were from individuals. The fight against Mr. Flanders dates back a number of years to the time when he was patronage referee under the Ben Davis regime, covering the first, tenth and eleventh congressional districts. At that time an investigation was made by a senatorial committee of which Senator Brookhart was chairman and conditions disclosed which created considerable scandal, it being shown that it was a general practice to sell postoffice and other appointments.

Mr. Flanders at that time was called as a witness before the investigat-ing committee, but it is stated that no graft was directly traced to him.

George's Views.

Senator George in speaking of the protests today said:

protests today said:
"I have received a number of protests against the Flanders appointment, coming from the most reputable people in his section of the state. On the other hand, I have also been sent letters of support for him, also from men whom I know to be above reproach.

"I have turned all these over to the subcommittee which has charge of the case and have taken no sides. All that I shall insist upon is that a complete investigation shall be made and that both sides shall be given opportunities to present their views in the fullest possible manner.

"Mr. Flanders was sheriff of Emmanuel county for four terms and some people, in whom I have the utmost confidence, said that he was an efficient and capable officer. Others, whose word I must accept just as 'I have turned all these over to whose word I must accept just as much, declare that he was totally unfit for the position and that his record is one which will not bear

It is known here that when Flanders' name first came up Judge William H. Barrett came to Washington and made a personal profest to Attorney-General Mitchell against the appointment, saying that it would be most unsatisfactory to him. Annual Survey Reveals Sales Almost as Heavy as in 1929.

SAVANNAH, Ga., Feb. 23.-(P)-The annual survey of industries and business conditions in Savannah for 1930 was announced Monday by the industrial committee of Savannah. The survey has been made annually by the industrial committee, which is an organization of businessmen support ed by the leading civic organizations of the community and the city.

Reports from 43 industrial concerns, representing more than 1-3 of all manufacturing in Savannah and presenting an accurate cross section of Savannah industrial activities, show gross sales during the past four years have been steady, those in 1930 being Reports from 34 Savannah concerns for which data are available for the past six years show a more favor-able condition in Savannah than in the United States as a whole.

With the exception of 1929, the index of industrial output in Savannah exceeded that of the United States for every year since 1925. In 1930 the index of industrial output in Savannah was 110 compared with 96 for the total United States.

The same condition was reported for number of persons employed and volume of pay rolls, although the comparison was less striking.

General business conditions in Savannah received favorable notice. The savannah received favorable notice. The churchyard. Savannah cotton market is much stronger than a year ago, receipts for the cotton market year to date being 85,000 bales more than for the en-tire preceding year. Railroad freight car loadings at Savannah were slightly less in 1930 than in 1929, but exceeded any other of the past seven years.

The local electric light and power company reports 15 per cent more customers and the local telephone company 21 per cent more customers than seven years ago. Newspaper circulation has steadily increased during this period.

Banking conditions in Savannah are reported to be exceptionally strong, the bank deposits and bank resources being approximately 20 per cent great-er in 1930 than they were in 1920. The percentage increase in bank de-posits was slightly larger than the increase in bank resources.

similar study was begun last year in Oconee county. This annual farm survey not only brings out the profitable production practices but the combination of enterprises that is making the farmer the most money.

The facts indicate, it is declared, that the farmers in Clarke and Oconee counties who have grown their home supplies and have produced from one to two cash crops, in addition to cotton, are "weathering the storm" much better than those depending on cotton alone. The board "therefore suggests that every farmer in these counties grow an abundance of food and feed crops and produce something to sell every month in the year, if possible."

COMMITTEE APPROVES
COPYRIGHT REVISION
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—
The senate patents committee today reported favorably, with several amendments, the Vestal bill for extensive revision of the copyright law.
The most important amendment relates to the so-called automatic copyright provision.
The bill as reported provides that no damages may be recovered for infringement of copyright if the formalities of registration and notice have not been carried out.

Go to your druggist and get a package of Dr. David's Sanative Wash. It is guaranteed to relieve the worst case of itch or you pay nothing. It quickly penetrates to where the devilish germs have burrowed into your skin and are causing you torture and embarrassment. It kills these germs—the itch ing stops—the raw, inflamed skin is allowed to heal and you have freedom from embarrassment and relief from the dreadful torture. At your druggist or sent under plain cover post-paid for 60c. Relief guaranteed or money promptly refunded. Owens & Minor Drug Co., 13 S. 10th St., Richmond, Va.—(adv.)

Army, Navy, Marine Corps Atlanta Chapter U.D.C. Memorializes Represented in Assemblage

Characterized by gaiety and brilliancy, the ball given last evening by the Fifth Congressional Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association of the United States of America, at the Biltmore hotel assembled a representative gathering of society, including members of the army, navy, marine corps as well as civilian contingents. The military note was carried out in the colorful decorations with flags representing the various regiments in and near Atlanta displayed on the walls and suspended in graceful folds between the tall columns. Grouped beyond the receiving line were six color sergeants carrying the regimental colors of the Twenty-second infantry, of the 122d infantry of reserve, and the colors of the fourth corps area, flanked by an armed guard in full United States uniforms. Faded battle streamers attached to the standards of the regimental colors gave evidence of a long and honorable career in the service of the United States.

A group of ranking officers of the service branches and their wives. received the guests, who were presented to the line by Lieutenani William Biddle, aide-de-camp to Major General Frank Ross McCoy. Those in the line included Colonel Gerald O'Keefe, president of the chapter, and Mrs. O'Keefe, General McCoy, U. S. A., and Mrs. McCoy, Major General E. G. Peyton, U. S. A., and Mrs Peyton, Brigadier General Harold B. Fiske, U. S. A., and Mrs. Fiske, governor-elect Richard B. Russell, Brigadier General Homer C. Parker, adjutant general of the state of Georgia, and Mrs. Parker, Colonel Henry Ashley Ripley, U. S. A., and Mrs. Ripley, Colonel Otey B. Mitchell, past president of the chapter; Mrs. Luther P. Call, Jr., Colonel Franklin S. Chalmers, commanding officer of the 326th infantry of reserves, and Mrs. Chalmers, Lieutenant Colonel Royal K. Greene, U. S. A., and Mrs. Greene, Lieutenant Colonel G. the flora and natural gardens of Sicily. Mrs. Franco Bruno Averardi described to members of the Peachtree Garden Club the charms of Sicily, that little island in the Mediterranean sea. She lectured yesterday at the meeting held at the Piedmont Driving Club, and was introduced by Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, president of the horticultural organization, with Mrs. Veazey Rainwater as hostess. She revealed to her audience in excellent English, which she learned in 14 months, the beauty of the climbing rose, cactus, white daisies, azaleas, orange, lemon cypress and lemon trees, the stately palms and hosts of other species that grow to perfection in Sicily.

Mrs. Averardi stated that there are 157 Italian gardens, open free of charge to Americans, in which an English-speaking hostess is on duty to show to visitors the glory of these gardens. She believes there is a mutual understanding existing between women of every country through the medium of horticulture, and cards of admission may be secured by addressing her at 260 West Seventy-second street, in New York city. She is the daughter of Signor V. E. Orlando, former premier of Italy, and has devoted several years to the study of historical Italian gardens and villas. Avoiding thus unpleasant fights.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter is very much inclined to respect the rights of his neighbors. Perhaps it is because he is naturally timid and is no fighter at all. Timid folks seldom are good fighters. Anyway, they avoid fights when they can. Now that he was safely under the big brush pile in the Green Forest it seemed to Peter to be the wisest thing to stay right there for a day or two if necessary. He didn't know just where Yowler the Bobcat was, but he suspected that he was hanging around, hoping that Peter would come out. That Yowler was in hiding where he could not be seen. Peter felt sure, because Blacky the Crow and his friends had stopped cawing and flown away. At least he supposed they had flown away, because he had heard their voices once or twice in the distance, after which all was still. Had Yowler been in sight they wouldn't have gone.

For a long, long time Peter remained squatting in one place. He was in no hurry to go anywhere and he needed a thorough rest. Indeed, he took a nap there. It was night when he awoke. This didn't make any difference. Peter likes night quite as well if not better than daylight. For a long time he listened, those long cars of his standing straight up to catch every little sound. Hearing nothing suspicious and his nose bringing him no suspicious scent. Peter began to move about, often having to squeeze between sticks that he could neither crawl under nor climb over.

So at last he came to a little sort its bit toward femininity. The scarf its bit tow

Spratt, alderman and councilman, respectively, from the tenth ward, were among the speakers at the planting of a Japanese cherry tree in Oakland City park Monday afternoon in observance of the birth of George Washington. Mrs. L. O. Freeman, president of the fifth district of the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, delivered the Washington address. The tree was planted under the auspices of the Oakland City Garden Club, with Mrs. E. M. Fain, president, presiding. The dedicatory prayer was delivered by the Rev. A. J. Moncrief, Jr., pastor of the Oakland City Baptist church.

Use every effort, sacrifice all you will, but that condition must be corrected if you want a slender figure that lasts.

The Why of Marmola

High world authorities, in the past few years, have aimed to correct that condition. They feed the body those essential elements which the thyroid gland fails to supply. Doctors, the world over, now treat obesity in this way.

Marmola prescription tablets are based on that method. They are prepared by a world-famous laboratory, to meet the average case in an ideal way. People have used them for 24 years—millions of boxes of them. In every circle you see the results in new beauty, new health, new youth.

No secret about them. The formula is in every box. We simply employ, in the right way, the best factors known to science. Your doctor, if you show him the formula, will tell you we have done that.

Let Marmola show you what it does to fight fat. Your own friends will advise that. The results may amaze you, but the book in each box tells the reasons. For the sake of beauty, of health, of new joys and longevity, learn what Marmola does. This is the real way, the right way to reduce.

Beer Aged in Time To Convict Owner

The question "What constitutes beer?" was settled in justice court at Seattle, and the answer cost William A. Lockwood, longshoreman, $200 and 30 days in jail.

$200 and 30 days in jail.

Lockwood protested that the amber fluid that was found in his house could not be called beer, because it had been made just the night before his place was raided, several months ago. The jury was undecided, some being inclined to agree with Lockwood, until a deputy prosecu'or produced one of the bottles and opened it. The fluid turned into foam and sprayed the prosecutor and part of the courtroom floor. Lockwood was found guilty. Do You Want a Baby?

Smithies Bow to Lanier in Semi-Finals of G. I. A. A. Tourney; Rise of Sluggers Precludes Return to Base-Stealing---McGill; Mickey Walker and Johnny Risko Clash in Miami Ring Tonight

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23.—This unprecedented run of cold weather here in the country where flourish ammunition to hurl at crooners, the imperial pint and the major body of wealthy unemployed is quite the topic of conversation.

Usually the weather is so warm and bright that it utterly disappears as a subject for discussion. That very feature, no doubt, has led Miami to become the winter sports center of the country. Something to talk about simply had to be invented.

But this season it has been cloudy and cool in the daytime and positively cold at night. At times it has rained. Even when the sun was bearing down brightest there has been a brisk breeze that searched filmy sports clothes as if armed with a warrant from the north pole.

QUITE PAINFUL, TOO.

Naturally the weather is a painful subject to what few Floridans there are. They have been defending it bravely for two months and the season is almost over with no signs of re-

Last night, however, I overheard the best answer to the weather question. It came from a Floridan. Some one in the party remarked that this must be unusual weather. "Yeah," he said smiling. "It is typical California weather, isn't it?"

That line is at once a defense and a wallop at the old rival across the continent.

And it is just that for a fact. It is just a prolonged dose o what one always finds in Los Angeles about the time of th Rose Bowl game.

WHAT A SIGHT!

Nobody but Pa Stribling could have effected one of the preliminaries on the card tomorrow night. He has matched Whitey Gorsline and Joe Knight. Both men are southpaws They fight with the right hand and right foot advanced.

Imagine how that will tie spectators into knots. Picture two noble maulers standing crooked in the ring. Nobody will believe it.

Oddly enough, a left-handed boxer does not feel at home boxing another left-hander. He is used to boxing right-handers, you see. So both boys will be at a big disadvantage. Perhaps both will lose, who knows?

ANOTHER LITTLE EARFUL.

There seems to be no lack of money down here. There really is a class in America that is spending money as carelessly as ever. I refer to that rather gaudy throng that includes those just inside and just outside the social register, together with those who cannot spell either social or register.

They are keeping one horse track, three dog tracks, jai-alai fronton and several very expensive gaming depression days, I am told.

One afternoon at Mr. Joseph Widener's race track, where the horses gallop, the mutuel shed handled $300,000 in cash. Other devices for separating folk from the coin of the realm are prospering similarly.

All these enterprises, supported by the wealthy wastrels, leave a goodly part of their money here. Horses eat hay, dogs eat kennel rations, jai-alai players eat spaghetti and tamales and the army of ticket sellers, ticket takers, waiters, lookouts, jockeys, hostlers, program sellers, cabaret singers, carriage starters, doormen, ushers must expend an amount on food and lodging. No little of the wealth so recklessly expended by the visitors goes to buy shoes for local babies and all that.

And the usual horde of tourists from Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania are here keeping capeterias, curio shops and sight-seeing busses going. So Florida is not taking hard times seriously just now. It is getting its own while its own is in town.

AIN'T IT DISGUSTFUL?

W. L. Stribling usually drives an automobile at a speed as nearly approximating that of his airplane as possible. He just naturally weighs a heavy shoe on the gas.

The other day he was taking Mickey Walker's car from the shop to Mickey at Hollywood, 18 miles away. The car had just been overhauled and the mechanic gave instructions not to run it over 20 miles an hour for the next hundred miles.

It was nearly dusk when W. L. started. As he tooled along the street at 20 knots he wore a sickly grin as if he were caught out walking half clothed. Finally he Gilbert Nunns, of Toponto, is Canada's first ranking player in the eyes of the Canadian Lawn Tennis Association.

Refusing to rank the Davis cup veterans, Dr. Jack Wright, Willard Crocker and Dr. Arthur Ham because they had not played in the required number of tournaments last year, the association placed Nunns at the top of the list with Marcel Rainville, Montreal, in second position. Back of these are ranked Walter Martin, Regina, No. 3; C. W. Aikman, Montreal, No. 4; John S. Proctor, Toronto, No. 5; W. L. Rennie, Toronto, No. 6; W. W. Gyles, Winnipeg, No. 7; N. A. Burrows, Montreal, No. 8; P. Deschenes, Montreal, No. 9, and B. Faubert, Montreal, and T. O. Ryall, Vancouver, bracketed together at No. 10.

Vance Reports to Robins: Major Clubs Start Training.

CLEARWATER, Fla.. Feb. 23.—
(UP)—When the Brooklyn Robins go through their second training drill of the season here tomorrow Dazzy Vance will be in uniform. Vance is still unsigned but has planned to work out while negotiating with club officials for his contract.

The pitcher arrived in camp from bit Homosassa hunting camp today but too late to take part in the opening drill. A few hours after his arrival he played golf with teammates. Manager Robinson and his threeman staff of coaches had about 18 players in uniform for the initial practice session which lasted about two hours. Shaute, Heimach, Phelps and other pitchers took turns on the mound lobbing the ball up to the plate in a lively batting drill featured by long drives off Del Bissonette's bat.

Judge Landis was a spectator at the workent.

PALM BEACH. Fla., Feb. 23.—(P)
Three weeks of championship tennis, which will attract amateur and professional stars here, opened at the Palm Beach Tennis Club today with first-round singles matches in the Florida women's championship. It is the twenty-first annual event of its kind to be played for the gold chalace cup put up by the late Mrs. Henry Flagler more than 20 years ago.

Results of the first-round event: Mrs. J. S. McDermott, New York, 6-3, 6-2.

Miss Marian Wicks, Tuxedo Park, N. Y., beat Miss Rose Davis, New York, 6-3, 6-3.

Miss Margaret Cluett, Troy, N. Y., defeated Miss Sally Sprague, Boston, 6-1, 6-3.

Miss Ann Storr, of New York, triumphed over Mrs. B, H. Namm, New York, 6-1, 6-0.

This week's women's events will be followed by a tourney of profession-als.

Acting Manager Bancroft, about 20 players worked out, of whom the only players worked out, of whom the only with 28 stolen bases. Four teams beat that in 1922, Birmingham having a total of more than 200. Jimmy Johnston, last season with the Crackers, holds the league record, 81, set in 1912.

A few of the old-timers are hoping that the new baseball will bring back more of the old-style "inside" base-ball, the stolen base, the hit-and-run, the squeeze play and all the old methods of winning ball games.

CHISOX REPORT.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Feb. 23.—

(UP)—Henline, ex-Dodger, was the Johnny-on-the-spot of the first spring park today. Manager Donie Bush was able to report almost 100 per cent with the squeeze play and all the old methods of winning ball games.

Packs Big Bat | SLUGGING HABIT | HURT STEALING, M'GILL BELIEVES

Boys Like Hitting Too Well To Change

By Ralph McGill. .

There is no indication that base stealing will return to baseball this year, despite the fact that the new ball, a bit deader as to cover but still very lively inside, will be used in the majors.

The boys have turned to swinging and it will take more than a dead cover to make them quit taking the bat at the end of the handle.

The Giants led the National league last season with 137 stolen bases. The White Sox led the American with 111.

WHAT A FALL! It was just as far back as 1915 that Ty Cobb stole a grand total of 96 bases, just a few less than the entire White Sox team could take in one season.

The Brooklyn club, in 1911, established a record that will probably stand forever. The Robins that year had larceny in their minds and their feet. They stole 347 bases to lead that year. No one comes close to that figure any more.

The decline has been most severe in the past 10 years. In 1921 Frankie Frisch, the Fordham Flash, went spinning down the paths to pil-fer 49 bases.

LAREDO, Texas, Feb. 23.—(P)—George Godfrey, Philadelphia negro, knocked out Dick Russell, carded as Ricardo Rosel. in the first round of their scheduled 20-round heavyweight fight here today.

Godfrey, who weighed 244 pounds, began the fight with heavy punches to Russell's head and body. He soon had Russell groggy. A short, powerful right to the jaw ended the fight.

Russell, who weighed 240, was booked as the champion of Spain and a successful fighter in South America and Mexico. He failed to strike the negro with an effective blow.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—All the ma-jor league baseball squads swing into training this week. Each of them will have numerous promising rook-ies. Some of them will look most ad-mirable in the practice games.

ies. Some of them will look most admirable in the practice games.

I would not be surprised to see some bush league pitcher strike out Babe Ruth, and an interview with the Babe Saying the youngster had a lot of stuff on the ball. Ruth is always generous in his praise of the newcomers, although he never knows their names. That means nothing. He doesn't know the names of some players who have been in the Big League for years. Ruth knows all about these players; don't make a mistake about that. He simply has a failing for names, and calls them "Jack" or "Bill."

ALL SYMPATHY.

I have all the sympathy in the world for this failing, because I can't remember names, either. Sometimes I start to introduce one of my oldest friends to somebody, and can't remember it five minutes later, but it might as well be five years. The Babe is like that. Well. what is your most embarrassing failing? We all have them. You remember: "All the world is a little dumb, except me and thee, and sometimes me thinks thee—"

But, to get back to the rookies, you will soon hear some manager, in a good loud voice, announcing that he has discovered a youngster who is a real sensation, a player of big league even will hint that this kid can not be kept off the club, that he will start the season.

That always is good copy. But, if be kept off the club, that he will start the season.

That always is good copy. But, if you are an old baseball reporter, with a warped and cynical mind, you will find out what position this amazing youngster plays. If it should be first, second r third base, you will then attempt to discover whether the manager's regulur first, second or third baseman wants more money than the club is willing to pay; whether his contract is still unsigned; whether he is a holdout.

THESE CLASSES.

THESE CLASSES.

There are at least four classes of recruits: Those who only look like major leagues against minor opposition: those who hit .400 until the pitchers begin to throw curves, and then hit .004; those who are potential major leaguers, but need further seasoning, and, lastly, those few who really are new stars in the baseball

Johnny mere standard of the same thing standard of the same thing. Johnny mere standard of the same thing standard of the same thing. A few youngsters, many of them pitchers, stick with the club after the season opens. Fewer stick after the player limit goes into effect. But the chances usually are good that a club will start the season with pretty much the same old batting order.

The best chance for players coming up from the minors to break in is, naturally, with the second-division clubs. These clubs either must improve or stay in the second division. On these teams there are many positions open to the right man. On first-division clubs there rarely is more than one job that might be obtained.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a homemade medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things.

fectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germladen phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and

In the latter movement Carnera spots Maloney a cracked rib. Why not substitute the fellow who cracked Carnera's rib Any one able to crack one of Carnera's ribs should hunt elephants with his fists.

The Walker-Risko contest should be lively enough, without meaning anything, unless it happens to lead to a Sharkey-Walker match. Johnny was taking his in large quantities back when Tunney was on his way up. Since that date the rubber man has absorbed copious quantities and, of course, is far away from the Risko of some years back. But the chance for a lively turn, plus the appearances of Stribling and Schmeling, will make up a parity that may get by in pretty fair fashion. At least it can't possibly be as bad as the Sharkey-Scott program turned out to be.

Walker and Risko in the past have both been aggressive, and this always helps when you consider the number of pugilistic entries who are thinking entirely in terms of self-defense.

Busy Bobby.

Busy Bobby.

Bobby Jones is now on his way west to combine both the radio and talking picture arts. He broadcasts en route and then doubles up from Los Angeles and Hollywood. On Thursday night he receives the A. A. U. cup for being the most popular champion, and then heads for the coast where he will remain for several weeks, depicting and explaining every possible type of shot the star should be able to play.

No single human being could ever depict the various types of shots the duffer can play at odd and even moments. I saw one of these last winter hit a golf ball so squarely on top that it bounded straight up and caromed off his nose. I defy Bobby Jones or Joe Kirkwood or Alex Morrison to duplicate this stroke.

The duffer has a far greater assortment of strokes. He may not know where they are headed, but they are on their way somewhere. One instructor told us of a most remarkable shot. "My pupil," he said, "first cut under the ball. It popped up just in front of him. The finish of his follow through caught the ball again in midair and drove it 180 yards over his shoulder to the rear. No Jones or Vardon could ever play that shot."

F YOU have any desire to open a steamy debate, ask some Brooklyn fan whether the Cardinals, Cubs or Giants should win the pennant this Brooklyn was worked into a froth last year, but 1931 will be even more so. Brooklyn fans figure the pennant is on the way once more and, for that matter, they have a first-class argument. The Dodgers threw away enough hall games last summer to win two pennants. They expect to bandon that system this spring and if they do they will be hard to beat. They have the pitching and the punch, and that is a big part of any winning system that doesn't get too cock-eyed in other respects, such as planting two or three base runners on the same spot.

spot. Even the conservative Dazzy Vance Liven the conservative Dazzy vance admits that he expects to be tossing in his bird shot through the next world's series. The Dazzler is no youth, but there is a lot of zip still left in his right wrist and elbow.

Bill Tilden won nine out of his Bill Tilden won nine out of his first ten sets against Kozeluh and if the statation doesn't change at an early date Mr. Curley will either have to warm up another pitcher or else step in himself, after one or two days of intensive training.

IF ERNIE SCHAAF happens to IF ERNIE SCHAAF happens to I keep on cleaning up there may be no one left to meet except Jack Sharkey, who owns part of his contract. Sharkey has a section of Schaaf. It might be confusing to know whether Jack was hitting his part of Schaaf or the other fellow's part. This ring business is developing new complications almost every hour.

IN THE meanwhile it might be re-1 called that Vinnie Richards is still the professional champion, having obtained the verdict over Kozeluh last fall. It might also be recalled that in 1926, when they met for the last time, Richards won three matches from Tilden and lost but awo. And Vinnie is now only 27, in hard training and around his best. "No," said Peter, flatly and at once—and felt like his most famous namesake.

"Ah, well, you'd not be telling me if you were, and well I know it." said Connolly. "It's no matter. I'll only be asking you one more question for the present, Mr. Wayne. But I wish you take time to think before you answer it. Do you know of anything you can be telling me that'll help us to clear up this case and lead us to whoever it was killed Mr. Thayer?"

Peter did take time to think over his answer, and that not only because Connolly had asked him to. Murder. Murder was not a thing to be dealt with lightly." And while he didn't think so, he couldn't be sure that he didn't, in fact, possess knowledge that might be of some significance: that some seemingly trivial bit of the information that he, more than any one else he knew, had. concerning Tack and Martha and their tangled, strangely hysterical lives, didn't have some bearing on this tragedy. But then, slowly, he shook his head.

"On-on-I didn't know." The deln im, him loomed the gross bulk of Connolly stood, looking at them. His connolly stood, looking at them. His eyes, as they met Peter's, were almost each in their ironic satisfaction. Behin him loomed the gross bulk of Charley, his dead cigar still pendent in one corner of his mouth. Peter stared blankly at Connolly and Charley as they stood in the door, the smoke from the flashlight still edding about them. Something about the way Charley looked at him puzzled him: there was a curious, almost a friendly, gleam in the big detective's eyes. They were going to arrively set Martha, Peter supposed; she had infected him with her terror, and he stood quite still, his arm about her, had some seemingly trivial bit of the information that he, more than any one else he knew, had. concerning Tack and Martha and their tangled, strangely hysterical lives, didn't have some bearing on this tragedy. ### TRADING TO BERESUMED ON ALL MARKETS TODAY

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—(**)—'Trading will be resumed on the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges and on the commodity markets tomorrow, after suspension today in observance of Washington's birthday.

Wall Street Briefs.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Wall Street was on a holiday today. Following the usual custom when a holiday falls on Sunday, the financial community today observed Washington's birthday and the New York Stock and Curb Exchanges, the bauks and all of the commodity markets were closed.

Consumption of American cotton is on the upgrade, both in domestic and foreign markets, and prospects are for a better showing the latter half of the season, according to a survey by I. V. Shannon, in the current issue of "Trade Winds," published by the linion Trust Company, of Cleveland. The study points out that reduction of cotton acreage and increase of consumption are the two major problems facing the trade if prices are to regain normal levels.

Stockholders of General Public Service Corporation, at a special meeting, voted to increase the authorized preferred stock to 500,000 shares and the authorized common to 2,000,000 shares.

PHILADELI'HIA, Feb. 23.—The directors of the Budd Wheel Company, of Philadelphia and Detroit, have declared the regular quarterly dividend of $4.75 per share, with an extra of 75 cents per share upon the 75 first preferred stock of the company. The regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents per share on the common stock was also declared, both dividends payable March 31 to stockholders of record March 10.

Fresh Ideas The Reserve Strength of Leadership

IN BUSINESS as in sports: "He who sets the pace must strain the hardest." The leader in any line of endeavor is the natural target for all competitors. Often these competitors are able to shoot the leader-targets full of holes because their aim is through the sights of progress and their bullets are fresh ideas.

Fresh ideas indicate reserve strength in competitive business. The trouble with many one-time leaders is that their ideas lose freshness. Methods that brought them to the front become their speed limit. They lack the spurt of fresh ideas.

Conditions change; ways that were successful become antiquated or ineffective. Some house in the rank and file grasps the new opportunities which the leader fails to see and a new leader comes to the front.

Excellence of product and service is fundamental but it is not enough. To maintain leadership, fresh and practical ideas are needed, and their source is exact knowledge exact knowledge developed thru detailed audits, research and upto-date budget and cost systems, thru the modern, the fresh, the practical in Business Accounting.

"The only safe equalizer of supply and demand—the only prevention against cumulative destructive surpluses—is the control through the influence of free play in price, representing the informed and inflexible judgments of the world, made effective through trade."

What free trader could state his business philosophy more comprehensively, in a paragraph?

More and more American business leaders are recognizing, that to be successful, international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade must grow both ways, and that the less obstruction to international trade in the process the better for all concerned.

HOUSE PASSES BILL TO SPEED BUILDING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—(P)—A house bill to speed the construction of the public building program through elimination of delay involved in condemnation of delay involved in condemnation proceedings was passed today by the senate. It now goes to the White House.

The measure, applying to public construction outside the District of Columbia, would enable the government lumbia, would enable the government to begin work without awaiting final judgment in the condemnation proceedings.

A similar measure for the District of Columbia was passed in 1920.

Proponents argued that it would protect the rights of property owners since the amount of compensation would be determined by the ordinary court procedure.

IN MISSISSIPPI

JACKSON, Miss., Feb. 23.—(P)—
Reopening of two Mississippi banks and temporary suspension of another were announced today by J. S. Love, state superintendent of banks.

The reopened banks are the Carroll County bank at Carrollton and the Peoples Bank & Trust Company of North Carrollton, carrying deposits of more than $500,000.

Officials of the Merchants & Farmers bank, of Lexington, Mr. Love said, temporarily suspended operations pending a hoped-for speedy adjustment of their financing.

Morris Lewis, president of the Merchants & Farmers bank, was quoted as saying that the institution was "solvent in every respect."

'All factors indicate present is Opportune for Investing in Securities ....."

HIT LOOKS on the face of things as if the time is 'right' and prices are 'right.' There remains the matter of a 'right' security. As to this, everyone must judge for himself and select for himself." (Thomas F. Woodlock in The Wall Street Journal, January 24, 1931.)

The steadily growing earnings, desirable character of the territory served and the essential nature of the business recommend Associated Gas and Electric Company securities. Gross and net earnings as well as gas and electric output of the properties in the Associated System during 1930 were the largest in its history.

Above average productivity in these utility areas

The better than average industrial, agricultural and mining productivity of the territories served should result in more rapid development and wider use of gas and electricity in Associated areas. Per capita value of manufactured, mining and agricultural products in the 2,857 counties that have electric service in the United States, is $631. Per capita value of these products in the 63 counties in which Associated properties serve half or more of the population, is $685.

30,300 new investors during 1930, bringing the total to 220,480 during the year, points to the public's appreciation of the earnings possibilities of the Associated System. An unusually large proportion of the security holders are customers served by the operating properties.

Earnings on an "overall" basis after depreciation, are 2.04 times annual interest requirements on the funded debt of the company and all interest and preferred dividend charges of its operating properties.

For a list of recommended securities of the Associated Gas and Electric Company, together with a booklet descriptive of the operations of the System, write ing that were to entangle Tarzan in the meshes of a great adventure. A black porter caught his foot in a hanging vine and stumbled, throwing his load to the ground. Of such trifles are crises made! This one altered the entire life of Jimmy Blake, American, rich young and handsome and on his first African big game hunt.

Blake's "Safari" had encountared the poorest of luck and was about to turn back to Railhead. Wilbur Stimbol had come as Jimmy's guest and guide but had proved rather a poor sport. Now he was disgruntled by Blake's decision to return home. Suddenly the load, falling from the black porter's shoulders crashed forward into Stimbol, hurling him to the ground.

Stimbol and the black porter scrambled to their feet amidst the laughter of the negroes who had witnessed the accident. The porter grinned. Stim-bol was livid with rage. Before anyone could interfere, the white man struck the black a terrific blow in the face that felled him, and as he lay there Stimbol kicked him savagely, yelling: "Take that, you clumsy cur!"

Before he could repeat the outrage, Blake seized him by the shoulder, wheeled him about and struck him precisely as he had struck the black. Stimbol fell, rolled over and reached for his automatic. Before he could draw it, Blake had him covered with a .45. "Cut that!" said Blake, crisply. "Now get up and listen to me."

Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd will be the guest of Governor L. G. Hardman, at the executive mansion, on Thursday. Admiral Byrd will arrive in Atlanta at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, coming to deliver his worldfamous lecture on his experiences in the antarctic. He will give the lecture twice, in the afternoon at the Agnes Scott College auditorium, as the last feature of the Agnes Scott lecture series for this year, and in the evening at the Atlanta city auditorium for the general public.

Governor Hardman will introduce the famous explorer at the auditorium, following which Admiral Byrd will present Eagle Scout badges to about 40 Boy Scouts of Atlanta and vicinity who have won the highest honor in Scoutdom.

The lecture at larging over the south pole. The lecture will be illustrated with 9,000 feet of special motion pictures, solected by the admiral himself from the hundreds of thousands of feet taken during the expedition to the under side of the world. > SAVANNAHAN AIDED MAKE TRADER HORN

A native Georgian, and brother of a prominent Atlanta woman, was an important member of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer organization that spent two years in Africa making the supertalking picture, "Trader Horn," it was learned Monday.

Robert A. Golden, of Savannah, brother of Mrs. Everett W. Wrigley, of Atlanta, was assistant director to Director W. S. Van Dyke for the making of this, one of the greatest screen productions of modern times.

Mr. Golden corresponded with his sister all the time the company was in Africa making the picture, telling in his letters many thrilling incidents of their contacts with natives and wild animals of the dark continent. He describes the hardships suffered by Harry Carey, Duncan Renaldo. Edwina Booth, the principals, and other members of the acting and technical company. Miss Booth, the only white woman in the picture, suffered a nervous breakdown which confined her to her home for six morths after returning to America, the result of her request, the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, of Piedmont, Ohio, their spiritual adviser, spent the last minutes after the current began courseled within four minutes after the current began courseled. "Trader Horn," made from the best-selling book of the same name, is to be shown at the Erlanger theater under de luxe presentation conditions all next week, opening with the night performance on Monday and continuing with matinee and night showings daily.

"We do not an Arizona deputy the end of an Arizona deputy sheriff, was manifest to the end.

At her request, the Rev. H. O. Teagarden, of Piedmont, Ohio, their spiritual adviser, spent the last minutes with Dague, while the Rev. C. F. Lauer, prison chaplain, walked with her to the grim death chamber.

Both she and Dague went to their death apparently assured by religious consolation. In letters written to Mr. Teagarden they said:

"We both know the blood of our savior, Jesus, has cleansed us of all sin." sin. "We do not want life imprisonmen"

VITAL LOVE STORY

ON CAMEO SCREEN In "Morocco," the attraction at the Cameo the first part of this week, the talking screen has a love story that is vital, soul-stirring, real, with a ruthless fervor that dwarfs all other emotions.

Gary Cooper, a soldier of the other emotions.

Gary Cooper, a soldier of the French Foreign Legion; Marlene Dietrich, a woman of mystery, a cabaret singer, who scorns all men. These two meet against the colorful background of "Morocco" and fall in love. Adolphe Menjou, the dapper sophisticate who starred in many memorable pictures, is the third member of the intriguing triangle that develops. "Morocco" is stunningly real; compellingly human; beautiful in its setting and supreme in its acting.

POWER CO. HOLDS SALES BANQUET

Monday night at the sixth annual dinner of the sales department of the Georgia Power Company, held at the Atlanta Athletic Club. Preston S. Arkwright, president of the company, presented the annual president's trophy to I. H. Moreland, Jr., assistant merchandise manager of the Atlanta division.

The trophy is presented to that division which, during the year, meets its sale quota for the greatest number of months. The cup was won by the Rome division last year.

C. A. Collier, vice president in charge of sales, served as toastmaster and introduced Mr. Arkwright as the principal speaker. The second speaker on the program was W. E. Mitchell, vice president and general manager.

FEDERAL MARSHAL

Georgia Factions Agree on Him, Is Report in Wash-

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—It appears definite that the name of Samuel Purvis, for reappointment as United States marshall for the middle district of Georgia, will be sent to the senate by President Hoover within the next day or two.

Up until today it appeared to be a neck-and-neck race between Purvis and Nichols, but the news that Rose and Arnold, in charge of republican patronage matters in Georgia, had finally decided to support Purvis has apparently settled the matter. Rose is expected to arrive here tomorrow morning and take the matter up with the department of justice, following which the reappointment should come with little delay.

George Blossom, who has been backed consistently by Rose for the position as is definitely known here in spite of denials, was put completely out of the race when it was an hounced that his name would not be WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.-It ap-
